

Webstorm Plugin for translation manager

The assignment

At Scorion, we are not only active in the Netherlands, but we are also increasingly active abroad. Scorion's applications are offered in several languages, including German. While developing the software, it still takes too much time to insert the translations for this on-the-fly.

It is up to you to help our developers by building a Webstorm plugin; It is a plugin for the IDE that guides us when creating a new translation(-tag). Some features we would like to see are:

- hotkey or key combination to bring up a popup that helps with the creation of the translation tag;
- a link to google-translate, also making suggestions;
- Automatically uploading the translation to our Directus service.
